

Metals Select Accounts

Thank you for your interest in opening a non-FDIC insured Metals Select account. Before continuing, here are some important things you should keep in mind.

Ordering

Once your account with us contains the available funds, typically your metals will be purchased on the next business day for unallocated purchases, and the same business day for allocated purchases. If you are concerned about the timing of your purchase, please call us at 1.800.926.4922.

Pricing

Our wholesale price plus or minus a spread. The spread will typically be no more than 1% of the wholesale pricing available to us from precious metals dealers and other sources. Unless we pre-agree on specific terms with you, we will not know the exact price until after we acquire your metal. Our prices are generally not the same as published "spot" prices, which are typically only available to a limited number of commercial parties engaging in large trades. Where we can, we do combine transactions in order to obtain as competitive a price for you as possible.

Allocation

Allocated

You will own an undivided interest in a specific quantity and type of metal stored at a third party repository in bulk form, in EverBank's name for your benefit and the benefit of other EverBank metals holders.

Your ownership interest is reflected in the regular statements that we will provide to you.

Unallocated

EverBank, on your behalf, will hold an undivided pooled interest in the metal along with others.

The physical metal is maintained by a third party repository for the benefit of all holders, without specific segregation or designation of particular types of metals to EverBank or any other holder.

Your ownership interest is reflected in the regular statements that we will provide to you.
